MILN

Global X Millennial Consumer ETF

REASONS TO CONSIDER

High Growth Potential
Millennials have surpassed Baby Boomers as the largest generation in the US.[1] With most of their prime earning years ahead, companies that cater to Millennials should be well-positioned for growth.

Invest in US Consumers
The US economy is consumer-driven, with private consumption accounting for more than two-thirds of nominal GDP.[2]

Unconstrained Approach
The most innovative US companies often defy sector categorization. MILN invests accordingly across a wide range of consumer-driven businesses.

The performance data quoted represents past performance and does not guarantee future results. Investment return and principal value of an investment will fluctuate so that an investor’s shares, when sold or redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Current performance may be higher or lower than the performance quoted. High short-term performance, when observed, is unusual and investors should not expect such performance to be repeated. Returns for periods greater than one year are annualized. Click here for standard performance as of the most recent quarter-end.

Shares of ETFs are bought and sold at market price (not NAV) and are not individually redeemed from the Fund. Brokerage commissions will reduce returns. Beginning October 15, 2020, market price returns are based on the official closing price of an ETF share or, if the official closing price isn’t available, the midpoint between the national best bid and national best offer ("NBBO") as of the time the ETF calculates current NAV per share. Prior to October 15, 2020, market price returns were based on the midpoint between the Bid and Ask price. NAVs are calculated using prices as of 4:00 PM Eastern Time. The returns shown do not represent the returns you would receive if you traded shares at other times. Indices are unmanaged and do not include the effect of fees, expenses or sales charges. One cannot invest directly in an index.
